WHAT STUDENTS SAY

It was amazing! One of the best programmes I’ve ever attended! Chose this programme for the Cultural Intelligence class, so I really like the good chance to combine cultural mix with my degree.
- Mate Orsolya Anna
University of Hull

Great experience! Met a lot of people and gain intercultural experience. The mixture of learning and travelling to explore a new country and culture is great!
- Sayangan Ravi
ZHAW School of Management and Law

It’s nice to be able to have time out of class to explore Singapore!
- Sissel Johansen
BI Norwegian Business School

1. Be a Local Somewhere
   Immerse in another culture through experiential learning. Learn to make a popular Singaporean Indian food - Roti Prata and foaming up Teh Tarik.

2. Learn From the Past
   Marvel at the results of cross-cultural mingling. Visits to the Peranakan Museum and the Asian Civilisations Museum reveal an interesting culture of food, art and lifestyle of the Straits Chinese Communities.

3. Learn a New Language
   Master conversational Malay and fluently order Satay - a Malay dish of skewered barbecued meat marinated in aromatic spices accompanied by a spicy peanut gravy. Sedap!*
   *Malay for delicious

4. Be an Art Connoisseur
   Enhance your knowledge of 'Arts Through Borders' with the National Gallery Singapore. Appreciate the significance and history of the world's largest public collection of Singaporean and Southeast Asian artworks.

5. Get Ahead of the Curve
   Singapore is to set up the world's first commercial 3D printing production facility sited at a port to make spare parts for port equipment. Equip yourself with the basics of 3D printing and why it is a game changer.

6. Open Your Tastebuds
   Hone your cultural intelligence through food. Explore the amazing hawker culture in Singapore, which is in the midst of a UNESCO bid. Appreciate local hawker fare like mee rebus, mee siam, hokkien mee and fried kway teow.

7. Stretch Your Creativity
   Unleash your creative minds in Singapore, recently named UNESCO Creative City of Design. Table-top Game Design will allow you to combine art with technology.

8. Explore Tech
   Host to the world's largest FinTech Festival, Singapore's FinTech Festival sees the largest gathering of FinTech players, technopreneurs and investors. Learn about artificial intelligence and data science to deliver better solutions.
